A BIG BATTLE REPORTED.

BETWEEN CHINESE AND ALLIES.

Japanese Scouts Located the Chinese Army Eighteen Miles North of Tien-Tsin—The Government's Correspondence in Refusing Li's Request—March to Peking Began Yesterday.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The State department this morning made public the correspondence regarding Li Hung Chang's proposal that the ministers should be sent to Tien Tsin under safe escort, provided the powers would engage not to march to Peking. Our government refused to submit Li's proposition to the other powers, and demands free communication with Minister Conger.

A big battle is reported between the Peking relief column and the Chinese army eighteen miles north of Tien-Tsin. The Chinese army, which numbered 20,000 and was massed, were located by Japanese scouts.

ADVANCE BEGAN YESTERDAY.

Shanghai, Wednesday Aug. 1.—Allies advanced toward Peking today. It is estimated that the expedition numbers twenty thousand men of all arms, with 170 guns. It hoped to reach Peking August 12.

MOHAMMEDANS FIGHTING BOXERS.

Tien-Tsin, July 30.—via Shanghai, Aug. 2.—Gen. Gaselee, with a strong force is reconnoitering near Peitsang. The local Mohammedans sent a petition to Denby, the secretary of the city commission, asking the protection of their churches, offering to provide quarters for troops. In case it was necessary the troops could occupy the mosques as quarters were not provided elsewhere. The commission agreed to the proposition. Chinese report that Generals Tung and Ma are entrenched at Peitsang and the Viceroy is there with a large force. Mohammedans are fighting Boxers.

ATTEMPT TO BURN FAISON.

Made by Incendiarists for the Purpose of Destroying Registration Books.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Wilmington, Aug. 2.—An attempt was made to fire the town of Faison, on the Wilmington & Weldon railroad, sixty miles from here last night. The registration books had been taken to Faison's drug store, and it was the evident intent of incendiaries to burn the town and the books. The fire was discovered and extinguished. Bloodhounds were wired for to be put on the trail.

COMES BACK HOME.

Squire Pritchett Has Cast His Last Republican Ballot.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

I have just cast my last vote as a Republican, and let the result be what it may, I feel that I have done my duty in behalf of good government and in trying to keep such men as Marion Butler out of office. If the Democratic party goes down, I go down with it. Today I sever my connection with the Republican party, so far as State politics is concerned.

J. A. PRITCHETT.

After the Shah.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Paris, August 2.—An attempt on the life of the Shah of Persia was made this morning but resulted in no harm to him. A man broke through the line of policemen as the Shah was leaving his apartments and tried to mount the royal carriage step. He was placed under arrest.

Will be Czar's Turn Next.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Rome, Aug. 2.—Bresci, the King's assassin, was in a very excited condition this morning and force was necessary to get him to put on his clothes today. He exclaimed to the warden. "It will be Czar's turn next."

Big Fire in Buffalo.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Fire early this morning destroyed seven buildings occupied by commission merchants. Two firemen were injured. Loss one hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

WILMINGTON BEATS CHARLOTTE.

The Third Game Yesterday—Quiet Election—Woman's Fits Failed to Affect an Officer.

Correspondence of the Telegram.

Charlotte, Aug. 2.—The election promises to pass off without disturbance of any kind here. The negroes especially, seem to be perfectly submissive to what is in store for them. A gentleman whose home was formerly in Cincinnati says you do not have to come South to learn that the negro must be ruled in order to get any service out of him. "In fact," said he, "in my country the negroes are worse than they are here. They are perfectly indolent up there."

Mr. E. W. Pou, who was one of the speakers at the big rally here, says, "I believe Aycock will get as many votes as any two men who ever ran for that office in this State."

A negro woman arrested for drunkenness deserves the first prize here for audacity. Officer Torrence had left the woman to 'phone for the patrol wagon when some one told the woman to feign a fit when the officer returned. This the woman did to perfection but failed to appeal to the tender mercies of the policeman who shut up the unruly woman in a small closet until the patrol arrived.

The Peters and King Stock Company leaves here August 4 after filling several months' engagement, playing to full houses at the Latta Park auditorium.

Charlotte lost the third game of the series to Wilmington here yesterday. Score 11 to 10.

A QUIET ELECTION.

PEACE THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

A TREMENDOUS DEMOCRATIC VOTE.

No Disturbances Have so Far Been Reported—An Unprecedented Vote Being Poll—Republican State Headquarters Have Given Up All Hope—Russell Did Not Go Home to Vote and Butler Remained Close in His Room—The West is Democratic—The Majority Not Less Than 40,000.

No definite figures have yet been even guessed at as to the election today. The vote cannot possibly be even estimated till late in the night. All reports indicate an unprecedented Democratic vote.

The election is passing off all over the State just like Sunday. No disturbances at all had been reported up till the time the Telegram went to press.

The life has been completely taken out of the Fusion party and there never was a more hacked set of men. The people of the State Republican Committee in this city have entirely given up hope. Secretary Hyams went to his room early in the afternoon.

Indications are that the majority will not be a vote under 40,000.

RUSSELL AND BUTLER STILL.

Special Dispatch to the Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 2, 12:31 p. m.—All business is suspended here, and mills closed. The election here is extremely quiet. The vote was never before polled so rapidly.

Governor Russell remains here. He did not go to Brunswick county to vote. Senator Butler keeps close to his room in the hotel.

State Chairman Simmons says so far as he has heard from the State, the election is everywhere quiet.

The local military company continues on duty at the armory or walks in squads about the streets. They will certainly be kept on till tomorrow.

INCREASED VOTE EVERYWHERE.

Special Dispatch to the Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 2.—Up to two o'clock no accounts of any disturbance at the polls anywhere in the State has been received. Chairman Butler has received a telegram saying that fifty negroes were not allowed to vote in Greensboro, having been challenged.

He also got a message from La Grange saying that two persons who were not poll holders were acting as poll holders.

An increased Democratic vote is being polled everywhere.

MECKLENBURG WILL GIVE 3,000.

Special Dispatch to the Telegram.

Charlotte, Aug. 2.—Mecklenburg will probably give three thousand majority for the amendment.

THE WEST DEMOCRATIC.

Special Dispatch to the Telegram.

Charlotte, Aug. 2.—The election is passing off very quietly here today. The reports from several precincts show the voting average 12 in favor of Aycock and the amendment to 1 against them.

Reports from western sections of the State show a Democratic victory is in progress, in nearly every instance. Pineville reports 101 votes for the amendment, and not a single negro voting.

The estimate now is that the Democrats will carry the State by 40,000 majority.

INDUSTRIES IN THE CAROLINAS.

A Resume of What has Transpired in the Two States for the Week.

Correspondence of the Telegram.

Charlotte, Aug. 2.—During the last week two new cotton mills have materialized.

Geo. B. Hiss, of Charlotte, and J. M. and C. J. Rhodes, of Cherryville, N. C., have formed a $300,000 company and will build a mill near Lenoir. The mill will start with 10,000 spindles, and will both spin and weave. The water power for this mill is one of the finest in the State.

At Marlton, S. C., a mill to be known as the Ashby Mill, has been formed with a capital of $125,000. J. C. Mace and others are the incorporators.

The big Olympia Cotton Mills at Columbia will increase their capital stock by $250,000, making a total of $1,750,000. This is said to be the largest cotton mill in the country under one roof.

The new Shelby Cotton Mills, at Shelby, are ready to begin operations with 3,000 spindles and room available for 4,000 more.

Owing to the closing of the Chinese market it is stated that the mills at Pacolet, S. C., will change the grade of their output, thus necessitating a change of machinery.

A $1,000,000 company, to be known as the Twin City Power Company has been commissioned in South Carolina to buy sites, erect factories, transmit power, manufacture cotton and woolen goods, etc. The principal places of business will be on the Savannah river near Parksville, S. C. Books of subscription will be opened in New York and Columbia.

The stockholders of the Royal Bag Factory at Charleston have decided to erect a plant for the manufacture of cotton goods, probably cotton seamless bags.

A $1,500,000 fertilizer factory is said to be a possibility for Charleston. The Amours of Chicago and the Charleston Mining and Manufacturing Company are said to be interested.

The furniture factory at Statesville has begun operations and will have an annual output of $60,000 value.

The Sea Island Telephone Company of Charleston has been organized with a capital of $10,000. The company will connect the famous Sea Islands and Charleston.

At Greensboro the Greensboro Telephone Exchange has been incorporated with capital of $50,000. A new company has also been formed at Williamston, N. C., with a capital of $900.

Rouse Brothers have given notice that they will open a new bank at Kinston on September 1st with a capital of $10,000.

The Raleigh Water Company, of Raleigh, will add a 3,000,000 gallon tank to their present plant.

At Oxford B. F. Taylor will likely start a buggy manufacturing plant.

Telegraphic Briefs Today.

King Victor Emanuel and the Queen made a long vigil last night at the bier of Humbert.

President McKinley arrived in Washington from Canton this morning. Shortly after reaching the White House he held a conference with Secretaries Long and Root, lasting one hour.

There is a nest of anarchists at 84 MacDougall street, New York. M. Bosi keeps a boarding house there. He has over a hundred boarders, all anarchists. Teresa Brugnoli, who inspired Bresci to kill Humbert, boarded there. So did Sassi, who was arrested in Italy as accomplice.

Republicans Admit Defeat.

At Republican headquarters in this city it is admitted that the State has gone Democratic. Reports received during the day have not been at all assuring, and late this afternoon Chairman Holton and Secretary Hyams retired to their rooms.

A New Dairy.

A gentleman from another State who has had experience in the business has arranged for the purchase of a farm north of town upon which he will conduct a dairy. It is his intention to run the business on an extensive scale. He will reach Greensboro within the next few days.

GUILFORD GOES DEMOCRATIC.

DISPENSARY PROBABLY DEFEATED.

The Election in Greensboro Has Passed Off Quietly—A Number of Challenges Made—Reports Indicate That the Entire Ticket Will Receive a Good Majority—A Few Scratched Tickets.

With the exceptions of the crowds around the polling places, today in Greensboro has been as quiet as the Sabbath. While party workers have been numerous and vigilant, they were in good humor and everything has passed off quietly.

The arrangement at the polling places contributed greatly toward facilitating matters and preventing any disturbance. A rope was stretched around the voting place, only one voter at the time being allowed inside.

Voting began early in the morning and has continued without interruption throughout the day, except at precinct No. 1, where the biggest part of the vote was polled before noon. With the exception of two candidates on the Democratic ticket, very few scratched tickets have been voted. Some of the anti-dispensary Democrats scratched Gen. Glenn and Mr. Jordan, but not enough to defeat them.

In only two precincts in this city have many challenges been made. Over 50 negroes were challenged in No. 3 and nearly that many in No. 4.

Further than the fact that the Democratic ticket will be elected, nothing definite is known. The four precincts in Greensboro will probably give a majority in the neighborhood of 400. It is estimated that the majority in the entire county will be about 800, probably more.

From reports received from different parts of the county the vote on the dispensary has been light. Even in Greensboro many persons have failed to vote on the question. At 4:30 o'clock there was a small majority against it in this city.

Christian Workers' Conference.

Correspondence of the Telegram.

Mars Hill, N. C., July 31.—The Mars Hill Conference for Christian Workers assembled for services at 9:45 Monday a. m. The subject for the hour was taken up and discussed, Rev. T. M. Honeycutt presiding. The subject was "The Call to the Ministry," and was discussed by Rev. A. E. Brown, Rev. A. P. Bennett, and Rev. John Prevatt, all of whom made interesting talks, and each agreed that the call to the ministry is a divine one. The ministers' conference was followed by an address by Rev. John Ammons on "Our Battle Scarred Veterans, Their Record."

Twilight services were held in the Tabernacle, after which the congregation repaired to the church and the services were by an address by Rev. A. E. Brown, on "The Reward of Our Battle Scarred Veterans," after which the conference adjourned to meet again Tuesday at 9:45.

The Tabernacle is nearing completion. Brother Honeycutt is at work in the vineyard again, but I am sorry to report that Brother Spilman is still confined to his room; may he soon be with us.

J. C. L.

in liquor and was trying to get up a row all day, gulling the paraders; that the crowd thrashed Garrett's mistake, but he, (Young), called them away. He said he did not think the people would let him stay there. Mr. Young went on to speak of Butler's unpopularity all over the State, and said he was the most unpopular man ever in this State, Tourgee was actually popular in comparison; that in six or seven counties in which he had campaigned he heard the people saying right along that Butler ought not to be permitted to live in the State. He added that this hatred was not confined to the leaders, but that the rank and file hate him even worse than the leaders do.

It is declared that if the campaign had continued another month there would have been red shirts in every county.

The letter of Cyrus Thompson to Butler in which Cy. "came off his perch" on the ticket, is a strange production. Read between the lines it looks very much like evening up with Butler for taking Cy. down. It is itself a capital Democratic campaign document, and T. B. Womack read it at Henderson and then read Ewart's vitriolic denunciation of Butler, which is, by the way, a masterpiece of invective and the most scathing attack of the campaign.

People will be surprised to know that during the last fortnight the Democrats have had at least 1200 speakers daily in the campaign; State, district, county and legislative. Nothing before was ever heard of which approaches it. The fusionists were literally swamped with speakers.

When high pressure was put on, as it has been during the past ten days or more, the doubtful voters have swung into line with the Democrats. Campaign speakers say that in some cases every doubtful voter in a township would be in a parade and that by them a great many white supremacy buttons were called for.

A gentleman traveled on the train with Republican State Chairman Holton a day or so ago, said the latter referring to the complaints of his offensive partisanship, which had been made to the President and also to the civil service commission, remarked that "it was a shame to take his job away because he was serving his State." He said that Holton looked as forlorn as a "red-haired stepson." Poor fellow. He is cast away in the trash pile. By the way it is learned that John W. Graham is Holton's attorney, not Butler's. W. J. Peele is the latter's attorney.

Senator Butler has the queer habit of riding in a carriage at night the little distance, say, of 150 yards between his headquarters and hotel.

It was quiet here yesterday. A lot of people went out to the ball grounds to see the game between Durham and Raleigh. Between these two places there is the most intense rivalry in the baseball world. It is not so in regard to any other place than Durham. The other teams appear to be almost as desirous of defeating Durham, the Charlotte team perhaps as much so. There was a baseball lawn party here last night and a big affair it was. Mauvers, of Raleigh, considered the best catcher in the association, was voted a prize. The baseball championship cup is on view here. It is the gift of Mahler's Sons, and is costly and beautiful. It is inscribed "The Mahler Penant Cup, 1900. Presented to the North Carolina Baseball Association."

Yesterday Col. J. C. L. Harris, who is on duty a military headquarters said the local military must be kept in the armory, on waiting orders, until tonight. He declared that having them thus under arms was a matter of precaution, so that in case of any real emergency they could be instantly sent to the spot, as they could be at the railway station in a quarter of an hour. Col. Harris went on to say that he did not expect any trouble; that the very stir and excitement and talk of it were prevention. One Republican has intimated that if there was any trouble anywhere it might be at Winston.

The State charters the High Point Trunk and Excelsior Manufacturing Company $5000; J. R. Brown and others stockholders.

Old Bodice Like New.

A bodice that has been worn for some time gets rubbed under the arms and across the back long before the rest of it is at all shabby, and yet it looks far too old to wear. To renovate and make like new make a little bolero or zouave jacket to wear over it, either of velvet, lace or cloth. Narrow lace sewn together does equally as well as that bought in the piece. The cloth or velvet could be edged with fur, and you will have a smart new bodice for a few shillings.

Shirt Waists.

The season of shirt waists is at hand. Indeed, it is always at hand, for that matter, and while predictions have been repeatedly made that these comfortable, pretty and sensible garments would soon go out of style, thanks to Dame Fortune they are perennial. The illustration shows a very attractive one, and with the small back and front vignettes, as given, no great difficulty will be found in making it.

When Visiting.

Of course, when you are asked to pay a visit that is sure to be very nice, you wish to accept. But, then, comes some fluttering of the heart as to whether your toilet things are good enough. But with a little care and outlay you need not mind what people think. Make a pretty white linen bag, and keep your brush and comb hidden there, instead of laid out on the dressing table. Dressing slippers can be made from shabby house shoes, covered with scarlet cloth and with a black bow on each. If you have rather shabby frocks keep them shut away in your wardrobe. Take only a few frocks and let those be your best.

To Musical Readers.

When one is fond of singing or playing, and one's purse is a very slender one, it is very seldom indeed that you can afford the price of good new music. And yet to sing the old ones only is not only dull for one's self, but boring to one's audience. To prevent this, buy a blank music book, or rule music lines in an ordinary blank one, and copy your music in there. Friends are always very glad to lend you theirs for this purpose, and you can often get stray things from musical papers, that would otherwise be lost. In his way, at no cost, you can keep up with the music of the moment.

HARRY TRACY AT CONCORD.

HERAN ON A FEW SNAGS THERE.

It was the Day of the Big Democratic Rally, and He was Imported for the Purpose of Making Trouble, and Got it in the Neck—Took Him Three Hours to Make His Talk, and Then He Didn't Get Through There Was so Much Fighting. Fled From Town in a Buggy—"Lord, Ain't We Happy," Said a Man as He Came Out of the Fight with a Black Eye—Only One Weapon Used.

Concord Special to Charlotte Observer, Aug 1.

This was a hot day in town for the Hon. Harry Tracy, the imported Populist orator from Texas, and it is worthy of note that the entire town is unanimous in the opinion that he deserved all that he got. In the first place, he had no business here. It was a Democratic appointment made six weeks ago, and within a week past arrangements were made by the Populists and Republicans to bring Tracy here and get up a counter-demonstration. They got all the demonstration they were looking for. The Populists had appropriated the court house for their meeting, but when Tracy and his escort arrived at a little before 12 o'clock they found that the door to the courthouse was locked, as it usually is when court is not in session. A table was placed on the court house porch, and the speaking or rather the attempt at speaking took place there. Mr. Tracy was introduced by Mr. John A. Sims, who announced that he would speak then and again at the same place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The Populist contingent, not exceeding 150 men, stood about the speaker. The balance of the crowd was made up of Democrats. All the speech that Mr. Tracy made would not have filled three quarters of a column in The Observer, yet it took him from 12 o'clock noon to 3:10 in the afternoon to make it.

For some reason, possibly out of curiosity, the crowd was comparatively quiet for the first ten minutes of Mr. Tracy's speech. He has a poor voice and people 25 feet away had difficulty in hearing him, but at the end of the first ten minutes he selected a document from his pile of papers and began reading it. It soon became understood that he was reading the constitutional amendment, and he had not finished the first section when a Democrat back in the crowd made himself obnoxious by yelling, "Hurrah for Texas!" "Hurrah for white supremacy!" etc. One of Mr. Tracy's backers moved out into the crowd to argue with the noisy Democrat, and fight No. 1 was on in short order. The crowd was densely packed and neither man could make a hit. They clinched and the surging crowd swayed them around and about, while everybody except his faithful bodyguard left Mr. Tracy. The fight revolved around the soldiers' monument and finally out into the side street, where three annexes to the main show was gotten up. It was fifteen minutes before Mr. Tracy could resume, and he had not spoken half a dozen sentences until the cry, soon to become a familiar one, "Fight!" was heard, and the surging of the crowd indicated the locality. Of the fighters, themselves, nothing could be seen—only a swaying, roaring mass of men, with here and there a fist shooting up. As long as a man in the mix-up could keep on his feet, he was all right but if he went down he was sure to be badly trampled upon, and it was from this cause that the worst hurts of the day were received. During the progress of these encounters, Mr. Tracy stood with arms folded, and as soon as the fight subsided, he would start out again with, "As I was saying," and it was observed that he often started off with something entirely different from what he had been saying, showing that he had lost the place he was at.

The fighting was almost a continuous performance, but during the brief intermission, it was no better for the speaker. The shouts and hoots of the Democrats and the yells of defiance from the Populists gave an outsider a very fair idea of what bedlam turned loose is. After over an hour of this performance, Mr. Tracy had not succeeded in reading the amendment. If he ever got it read nobody but himself knows, and probably he could not swear to the fact as to whether he read it or not. It was along about 2:30 o'clock, when the climax came, and there were so many fights on hand that the most nimble-footed and sharp-eyed spectator could not take them all in. One of the fights surged out of the court house yard across the street and up against Lawyer Wm. Smith's offices. There it was that the only weapon in use during the day came into play, when the scalp of a Populist was laid open with a stick. The participants had some elbow room and the fight took on the character of an old muster day knock down and drag out. One young fellow, coming out of the mill, with a black eye, his shirt in shreds and a patch of hair knocked off, jumped up, cracked his heels and shouted, "Lord, ain't we happy!"

This was the way the thing kept up until 3 o'clock, when Mr. Tracy came down and started for his hotel, escorted by his faithful retinue and followed by a hooting, jeering crowd. The word: "They are after Tracy," got out, and in a few moments there was a great crowd in front of the hotel. Mr. Tracy was shoved inside, and the proprietress, Mrs. Kimball, stood in the door and held the crowd at bay. "You can not come in here," she said, "unless you cross my dead body."

There was really nobody after Tracy and nobody intended to harm him, but the crowd got the idea that Tracy was to be brought out. In the meantime, Mr. L. Campbell Caldwell began a speech from the court house, and that drew away almost all of the crowd from the hotel. Quite a squad remained about, and finally Rev. Lacy Hoge, pastor of the Baptist church, mounted a chair in front of the hotel and calmly addressed the crowd, urging them to leave Mr. Tracy in peace. Mayor George W. Means then mounted the hotel steps and in a firm voice assured the crowd that he would uphold the law and intended to do it at all hazards. The crowd was then advised to go across the street and hear Mr. Caldwell's speech. The hotel was then about deserted, and going in, Mayor Means shortly emerged, escorting Mr. Tracy. The two went directly to the home of Rev. Mr. Hoge. For a block or two, a surging crowd followed, but they dropped off, until when Mr. Hoge's home was reached, only a few stragglers were in sight. A telephone message a few minutes later brought Mr. Tracy's valise and a horse and buggy. He was hurried into the vehicle and the driver took him to Glass' station, six miles north of Concord, where he took the first train, presumably for Texas. That ended the excitement of the day.

Mr. Tracy visited North Carolina about 12 years ago as an organizer of Farmers' Alliances. He has been making campaign speeches in this State for about a week past. He appears to be a harmless sort of a man. At least he makes a tame speech, with little or no force about it. The Cabarrus Democrats were incensed over his coming to Concord on their rally day because it was an open attempt to bring about trouble.

THURSDAY AUGUST 2, 1900.

A RUFFLE IN THE UPPER CRUST.

As a study in human nature we reproduce the following:

The front of the Newport Casino was the scene, of unusual excitement this morning during the driving hour. A camera fiend, failing to get a picture of Mrs. Herman Oelrichs at a respectable distance, approached to within five feet of her and took a snap shot against her wishes. She sought the protection of Policeman McCormick, who told her that while he would not tolerate an insult to her, he knew of no law under which he could arrest the man for impertinence. He and Mrs. Oelrichs returned to the man and gave him a severe lecture. The man said that he was from a New York newspaper, but refused to give his name.

He also made a snap shot, much to her disgust, of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., who drew up to the sidewalk in her automobile to see her sister, Mrs. Oelrichs. This made matters very much worse. A large crowd of fashionables, evidently sympathizing deeply with the two women, gathered as they hurried off down the avenue in their automobiles.

An hour later Mr. Herman Oelrichs and Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., appeared upon the scene and much to their surprise found the man still at the Casino entrance shooting his camera most audaciously at society women. The two men accosted the camera fiend and expressed their indignation. Policeman McCormick again appeared on the scene. Mr. Vanderbilt dared the man to take his picture; Mr. Oelrichs scolded him severely.

The man's manner was not apologetic and Mr. Oelrichs, growing more exasperated, kicked the camera out of his hands and smashed it into fragments.

The man wept at the loss of his $35 camera and left saying that he would sue Mr. Oelrichs.

There have been no arrests made and no complaint even made to the police.

This ruffle in the upper crust suggests two or three questions which present themselves to individuals dwelling in the lower atmosphere. Supposing that the upper crust might act like some of us of the lower strata under similar circumstances, we might ask some of the following questions concerning the above incident:

What did that fiend want with old lady Oelrichs' picture, anyway?

If that policeman could not arrest that son-of-a-gun on legal grounds, why couldn't he have clewed him a stroke behind the ear on his own private account?

Why didn't sister Oelrichs go in the house if she wanted to get out of the way?

Why didn't the big crowd of fashionables mob the presumptuous duck?

Why did policeman McCormick again appear upon the scene when he had failed to do anything the first time?

Why didn't the fiend give Mr. Vanderbilt the cold stare and tell him he wasn't after his picture, and why, since he had grit enough to stand his ground so well, didn't he punch Mr. Oelrichs' face when he was doing the scolding?

Why didn't Mr. Oelrichs smash the man instead of his camera?

Why were there no arrests made?

And why, finally, did the reporter bother to put that item in his paper, and, also, why are we asking these fool questions? Why all of it, anyhow?

We still hold our figures at 42,000, till proved otherwise.

UP TO THE MINUTE

TRIALS OF A NEW YORK CREDIT MAN.

Tricks Some Persons Use to Defraud Big Stores and Measures Taken for Their Prevention—People Who May Be Trusted—References.

Up to date is not enough for the credit man of a big New York department store. He must be up to the minute. The tricks that were tried on him an hour ago are ancient history, pigeon holed in his memory. His business at the present moment is in the trick which the latest seeker after credit may be trying to play on him. He must be careful not to drive away a good customer whom it is safe to trust, and he must be equally, or more, careful not to give credit to one who cannot or will not pay. His employers do not accept any excuses. He must not say that he did not know about So-and-So's financial condition. It is his business to know. His value to his house depends on the amount of credit he grants and the small per cent of loss which comes of it. There is absolutely no sentiment about the matter.

"Suppose a man whom you knew to be perfectly honorable, but in temporary straits, should ask you for credit?" This was the question I put to the credit man of the department store doing the largest credit business in New York.

"He would not get it," was the answer. "Intention does not count for much. Ability to pay is the thing."

Last year this store lost barely one-half of one per cent. of the credits it extended. The credit methods of the several large stores in New York are substantially alike, the only essential difference being in the degree of skill with which the various credit men deny people without offending them. First, there is the Retail Dealers' Protective Association, composed of most of the New York retailers who do any credit business. For the benefit of its members this association issues from time to time a book of ratings of habitual credit seekers. The latest book contains more than thirty-two thousand names, the ratings being based upon actual dealings with members. The association also makes special investigations for its members and undertakes the collection of accounts.

Supplementing this, each large store has a system of cards, on which are written the standing of every known New Yorker who is at all likely to ask for credit. For instance, a white card indicates that the person whose name it bears is worthy of credit. Memoranda of the extent of his credit and of any facts concerning him are recorded there. Should future information show that he is slow in his payments, his name is transferred to a red card, and the reasons recorded there. Should he at last turn out to be unworthy of credit, his name is placed on a blue card, and he is stopped from getting anything save for spot cash.

The credit man's assistants are constantly at work on these cards. They study all the daily newspapers and every other source of possible information concerning the financial condition of New Yorkers. A birth may mean that the parents have an added expense, which makes it the harder for them to pay their way. A death may have lessened the earning power of a family. A marriage or a divorce may either increase or diminish a man's or woman's financial responsibility, according to the circumstances of it.

If judgments are entered, if mortgages are given, if any kind of trouble comes to anybody whose name is carded in the credit department, note is made of it.

But, the shrewdness of the credit man is most called into play when he has to deal with persons of whom he has no record; and these come by scores every week.

"My first impressions are always best," said one of these keen men to me. "The first time I see a person I am on guard with all my faculties. The next time I may be influenced by some little thing which would have made no impression at first. I don't believe I ever changed my first impression that I did not make a mistake one way or the other; and it is as bad for me to refuse credit to a worthy person as to give it to an unworthy one."

"We don't care much for bank references," he added. "They are apt to be too sanguine. I know that bankers are often loose in their recommendations, so I set the Retail Dealers' Protective Association to making special investigations. They often find that large properties are more than covered by mortgages, that unsatisfied judgments stand against very well recommended names. References are necessary of course, but we have to take them with many a grain of salt."

"We divide people into three general classes. For example, the recommendations of public men are seldom of any value. A politician will usually recommend anybody who has a vote or can influence one. And as to clergymen, their sympathies get away with their judgment. The woman who comes with the recommendation of her pastor is pretty sure to be disappointed."

"What general class do you regard as the safest risk?"

"Army and navy people can have all the credit they wish and no questions asked. The standard of business morality in the army and navy is positive assurance that we will get our money."

HACKED AND IN THE TRASH PILE.

Says it is a Shame to Take His Job Because He is Serving His State—Attempt to Steal in Beaufort—Governor Russell Has Militia Under Orders Today—Baseball Enthusiasm—The Mahler Pennant Cup. Special Correspondence of the Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 2.—The only incident yesterday was a thrashing given Tom Massey, white Republican at Selma. He cursed some Democrats. Teague, the Populist who yesterday caused trouble at Smithfield and was made to leave turned up at Selma. He began a speech calculated to arouse the negroes and was there stopped and told to depart. He left.

The local military was kept on waiting orders here yesterday in the armory. Logan Harris, Assistant Adjutant General said they would be kept on duty all of today; that it was a matter of precaution, so that in case of any great trouble they could be quickly gotten away to it. He said there was no disturbance today, and that the stir and talk of possibility of trouble really prevented. Some of the Republicans were intimating that if any trouble happened anywhere it might occur at Winston today.

Democratic State Chairman Simmons said last night: "The grossest outrage Governor Russell has yet perpetrated is keeping the soldiers here armed and in uniform. I believe it is an attempt to make political capital and to imitate and arouse the people in a time of profound peace. It is military usurpation. There is no suggestion of any violence calling for interference of the military. This action of the governor cannot be too severely condemned. It is an outrage on the people of the State. There is no explanation of it save the overweening influence over the Governor of Senator Butler. It is an open and flagrant violation of the constitution and laws of North Carolina and the spirit of our institutions and ought itself to arouse the people to the utmost effort to throw off the last vestige of Fusion authority in this State. Some Democrats declare it an overt act which justifies impeachment.

Ex-Chief Justice Shepherd said that after careful consideration he is of the opinion that any writ enjoining the election, if such a thing is attempted, will be void and therefore not binding upon anybody.

Two disguised men last night attempted to steal the wife of a registrar in Beaufort county. They frightened her and searched the house. It is said several persons were implicated and that there is evidence against a negro.

Senator Butler today wrote a letter, signing it as Populist State chairman, to Congressman Bellamy, at Wilmington, in which he dared him to come here and drive him out of the State.

Chairman Simmons' estimate of the majority for the amendment and the State ticket is 40,000.

The Raleigh Light Infantry spent last night in the armory on waiting and this morning were still there. People laughed at the ordering of the troops on duty and at the Governor's heedlessness. There was no sort of occasion for them to go to Smithfield. Sheriff Ellington of that county, is not only one of the best sheriffs in the State but one of the bravest and had there been any mob or any attempt to injure Parker, the Republican editor there, he would have stopped it. But the whole thing was moonshine. Parker was afraid of ghosts and the Governor acted without any mental balance.

P. S. Spruill came in today from the west and brought good news. He said there were 3,000 people at the speaking at Lenoir and that Caldwell would be right in the Democratic column, and by a good majority, too. The Fredell District will be carried, so will McDowell county. Spruill says he has never seen a bigger demonstration in the State than at Statesville.

T. B. Womack went to Henderson yesterday and spoke. Red shirts made their first appearance there, about one hundred strong. Those who did not have red shirts had red rosettes, and all were "red hot," to use the words of Insurance Commissioner Dick Young. The latter said Zach Garrett, one of the Vance Populist leaders, was

A GIRL SEES JAPAN

AND TELLS WHAT SHE THINKS ABOUT IT.

Etiquette is an Important Part of a Japanese Maiden's Education, and a Deal of Care is Given to the Arrangement of the Girdle.

Miss Ethel Maud Soper, a student at the Woman's College, was born in Japan and lived there a long time. She is the daughter of the Rev. Julius Soper, of the Methodist Church, who has been a missionary in Japan. Miss Soper speaks as follows of the difference between a Japanese girl and an American girl:

"The first remark made after an introduction is, 'And what might be your honorable age?' And you may be sure that if the answer be a Japanese she will give her full age—and even be tempted to add a year or two. This is the indispensable question in polite society. There is even a special costume which only women over 80 may wear. The long, dull-colored garment cannot be altered, but the lining of the sleeves and neckpiece are made of the most brilliant scarlet. The sandals are laced with scarlet thongs, and a close skullcap of the same coloring completes the dress.

"The dress of a Japanese girl is made of straight pieces sewed together. Japanese sewing is very different from ours. There are no ruffles, no gathers, no bias folds, the fashions never change, and a girl may wear her mother's or grandmother's frock without a thought of fit or fashion. There are however, prescribed dresses for different classes of society. A European can tell at a glance, but a Japanese will get hopelessly bewildered at the class distinctions indicated by a tiny thread of color in the sleeve or slight variation in the way of wearing the hair.

"The upper class Japanese girl usually has a loose garment of some dull color lined with brighter tint. Our fashion of putting bright silk linings in our coats came from Japan. A ball dress might be of a dove-colored crepe with a pink lining; the skirt showing beneath this might be hand-painted most elaborately. The neck-piece showing above the loose outer garment is often of variegated silks, beautifully ornamented.

"But the most interesting article of a Japanese girl's toilet to herself is her belt. First a width of crepe is wound around the waist to hold the dress in right position; over this comes the belt proper. It is often at least 16 inches wide; made of any substance, but always lined with some heavy material like Canton flannel. Some of these brocade belts, with faces, which come from the shoulder to the feet, cost as much as $200 or $300. It takes a good deal of skill to get the belts on just right, and a large part of a Japanese girl's education consists in learning exactly how to do it.

"I taught a princess once who was very close to the throne. She would come to my house with several attendants, and in the most costly robes, but if the weather was warm she would be barefooted.

"The hair is dressed very elaborately and always by a hairdresser. The fashion of puffing the hair over cushions, or "rats," as schoolgirls call them, is a Japanese importation. The past fashion, too, of wearing bangs, comes from another Japanese way of wearing the hair. They fix their hair once, or at most twice a week, for it stays fixed until the hairdresser calls again. For fear the structure will get tumbled when she is asleep, the Japanese girl dispenses with pillows and sleep with a wooden rest under the back of the neck and the head quite unsupported.

"Very comfortable it must be, but a Japanese girl, like an American girl, will do a great deal for the sake of appearing well.

"Etiquette is an important part of a Japanese girl's education. There are professors of etiquette in Japanese schools, just as there are professors in languages, and a girl must know how to enter a room, how to introduce and all the numberless rules of precedence. All men, of course, take precedence of all women, unless they have been Christianized, then they assume our ways with woman-kind.

"One specimen of this exaggerated politeness is in their salutation. Where we would say, 'I am glad to see you,' they would say, 'I hang upon your honorable eyelids.'

"The Japanese girl is apt to be indolent. Knitting was a great occupation with them, and now that the Europeans have taught them other kinds of work they go wild with delight over crochet stitches and different kinds of embroidery. Almost the only game that the girls play is battledore and shuttlecock. They do this a great deal, looking pretty and picturesque when they play, just as if they had stepped off a Japanese fan.

"It was always very hard for the missionaries to get hold of the women of the family. When they called only the men and the children would appear, and when the wife was asked for, 'O, she is just a stupid thing,' the loving husband would protest.

"A woman has little control over her life. She marries at the will of her father or elder brother, often without seeing her future husband till she is led to the altar. The man, too, is governed by his father, who selects the bride. But human hearts are the same everywhere, and there are some genuine love matches, even in Japan.

"There is no furniture in a Japanese house, only cushions. A table for meals is so small that it looks like a tray. The difference between the house of a poor man and the residence of a millionaire consists in the timber of which the house is built. You cannot find a knot in the wood of a beautifully-built house. Then the matting on the floor will be of the finest and the sliding doors, perhaps, beautifully hand-painted. The kitchens, too, have no furniture except the stove; there is not even a table; all the work is done on the floor. As you can imagine, it is beautifully clean. There is just one peculiarity in this housecleaning—the kitchen floor must be washed with cold water only. It is never exactly washed, however, but rubbed over with cloths wrung from cold water. And it shines beautifully, like the finest mahogany table."—Baltimore News.

WORTH NOTING.

A Few Facts in Relation to Domestic Economy.

Mother-of-pearl articles should be cleansed with whitening and cold water. Soap discolors them.

In blowing out a candle hold it aloft and then blow upward. This will prevent scattering of the grease.

Keep rubber plants exposed to the light during the winter, but free from frost. Water should be given in moderate quantity.

To remove rust cover steel with sweet oil and leave it in for two or three days, then dust it thickly with finely powdered unslaked lime and rub till the rust disappears.

Cod-liver oil when taken regularly will generally have a beneficial effect upon the complexion. Those who dislike the taste may take it with orange bitters or orange and ginger wine.

Autographic ink is made by melting together ten parts white grain soap, ten parts wax, three parts tallow, five parts shellac, five parts mastic, three parts lampblack.

It should not be forgotten that even in the coldest days fresh air and sunlight are invaluable as purifying agents. Windows should be opened, beds stripped and sleeping rooms aired thoroughly every morning.

To detect impure water draw a tumbler full from the tap at night, put a piece of white lump sugar in it and place it on the kitchen mantelshelf or in any place where the temperature will not be under 60 degrees Fahrenheit. In the morning, the water, if pure, will be perfectly clear; if contaminated by sewage or other impurities the water will be milky. This is a simple and safe test well known by chemists.

A nice seam presser can be made of a short length of curtain pole or broom handle. Select a piece ten or twelve inches long, pad it with flannel and cover with old muslin.

GIFTS OF MILLIONS

THE NOTABLE RECORD OF GENEROUS WOMEN.

A Total of More Than $16,000,000 Given in Large Sums by American Women—Much of the Money Devoted to Educational Purposes.

During the year 1899 nearly $16,000,000 was given for philanthropic purposes by American women. Of this amount, the single largest sum is Mrs. Stanford's $10,000,000. Half a million given by Mrs. Lydia Bradley, of Peoria, Ill., comes next to Mrs. Stanford's gift. It was presented last summer to the Bradley Polytechnic Institute, and constituted her second donation, the first being a gift of the land on which the institute was built and the money to build it. That involved a sum approximating $250,000. In addition, Mrs. Bradley has given to Peoria 137 acres of land home for aged women and many other smaller institutions.

Miss Flood's presentation of her father's country place at Menlo Park to the University of California, made last year, has been supplemented recently by a gift of money. The house and its contents are valued at $1,000,000, and a tract of nearly 3,000 acres is included in the transfer.

Another California woman has been munificent in her gifts; this is Mrs. E. B. Crocker, who has conveyed to the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks her home in Sacramento as a memorial of her husband; it is valued at $90,000. Mrs. Phoebe Hearst and Mrs. Leland Stanford are constantly adding to their gifts to the universities they have built up in California, and their benefactions go up into the millions.

Mrs. Emmons Blaine, of Chicago, in May announced that she would found a college of pedagogy. It will represent an outlay of $500,000.

At the commencement of Vassar College in June it was announced that Mrs. Katherine Tuttle has given a ten thousand dollar scholarship in memory of her sister, and Mrs. Caroline Swift Atwater, of Poughkeepsie, to build a new infirmary has donated $8,000.

From Mrs. William Beldon Noble, of Washington, Harvard University has received a gift of $20,000 to endow a lectureship in memory of her husband, a graduate of the class of 1885. Another gift of $20,000 was received by the university from the family of John Simpkins for the Lawrence Scientific School, and still another $5,000 from Mrs. Frederick T. Phillips of Lawrence, R. I. The gift is in memory of the donor's brother.

A new dormitory to be erected at Welles College, at a cost of $60,000, is the gift of Mrs. Martha S. Pomroy of Washington. Mrs. Irene B. Lewis, of Hamilton, N. Y., has recently made a gift of $5,000 to Colgate University.

Miss Marie Hopper, of Philadelphia, has given $10,000 to Bryn Mawr College. Mrs. Joseph Moffatt, of Los Angeles, Cal., has given property to the value of $50,000 to the endowment fund of the National Florence Chittenton Mission.

For the maintenance of a home for convalescents and invalids at Santa Barbara, $80,000 has been left by Santa Anna S. C. Blake, her will being probated in April. She also left to the Cottage Hospital, $10,000; to the Ortopedic Hospital, Philadelphia, $10,000, and to a Boston hospital a like sum.

During last summer a new floating hospital for St. John's Guild was built by Mrs. Augustus D. Juillard, of New York, at a cost of $83,000.

To the endowment fund of the university of Chicago Miss Helen Miller Gould has recently contributed $25,000. A second scholarship of $8,000 to Vassar College was announced at the commencement of June—these scholarships are given in memory of her mother. Two scholarships of $6,000 each she has given to Mr. Moody's schools; one for the boys' seminary and one for the girls. To Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital, New York, she has given $5,000. At the cost of $250 she provided for a floating hospital trip last summer. For cyclone sufferers in Wisconsin, July 6 last, she sent her check for $250.

In March the Countess de Castellane (Anna Gould) gave $20,000 to a children's society in Paris.

Since her husband's death, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt has sent $5,000 to the police pension fund. To the Kings' Daughters of Newport her check for $1,000 was lately sent.

Miss Elizabeth Plankinton, of Milwaukee, gives $100,000 for a Young Women's Christian Association in that city. Through the generous gift of $50,000 from a woman residing in New England, Bishop Grafton, of Fond du Lac, Wis., recently announced that the indebtedness on the cathedral had been wiped out and the school fund augmented.

Gifts of bequests have abounded during 1899. A quarter of a million dollars was left by Mrs. Eugene Kelly to build a chapel for St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, and to provide a fund for the sick poor. Of the Baroness de Hirsch's $10,000,000 left to the Clara de Hirsch Home in America, York, founded about two years ago, total legacy of $250,000.

The will of Mrs. Caroline L. Macy, School in New York, bequeathed $200,000 to the Teachers' College and $5,000 to the Presbyterian Hospital. Mrs. E. A. Stevens, of Castle Point, Hoboken, bequeathed to Holy Innocent Church, which she was mainly instrumental in establishing a fund of $3,000 to provide coal for the poor of Hoboken at a cost price, and $12,000 for other church charities. To the Church of the Holy Communion, New York, Mrs. Caroline A. Cisco leaves $10,000. St. Barnabas Hospital Newark, benefits to the value of $1,000 and a share in the residuary estate of Mrs. Eliza Wells who also left $1,000 to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

By the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson in July the poor seamstresses of Rhinebeck-on-Hudson find themselves heirs to an estate of $300,000, which is to be equally divided among them.

At the breaking out of the South African war, all the salaries paid by the Transvaal Government were at once reduced, that of President Kruger, which had been £7000, being cut down to £1000.

The division of forestry at the Department of Agriculture has sixteen men in the State of Washington gathering statistics regarding the growth of the red fir.

EARRINGS.

New York's Four Hundred Has Begun Wearing Them.

There have been many rumors about earrings becoming popular. They were the much-talked-of innovation of the First Assembly ball in New York. But instead of a gem glistening in the lobe of the ear, "drop" earrings were worn so big that they almost suggested the barbaric.

Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, who delights in adopting every new fashion, had, wore her massive earrings as she had never known what it was to be without them. They consisted of turquoise exquisite in color and graduated in size. There were three for each ear, and when Mrs. Belmont moved her head the lower one just escaped touching her shoulder.

Mrs. Drexel also wore remarkably beautiful earrings—a diamond screw for each ear and a costly "drop" pearl. Then Miss Ethel Davies, Mrs. Bradley Martin's charming niece, wore much-talked-of earrings. In the lobe of her shell-like ear a diamond glistened, and from it swung a big turquoise.

Three brilliantly matched rubies, which glistened as if they were diamonds, were worn as earrings by Mrs. George Gould. They were the most conspicuous earrings at the assembly. They were all the same size—three rubies for each ear and each gem worth a small fortune.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

A Few Recipes—How to Stuff and Cook Roast Pig.

About three or four weeks is the right age to roast whole; cut off the toes, leaving the skin long to wrap around the ends of the legs, and put it in cold water. Make a stuffing with about six powdered crackers, one tablespoonful of sage, two of summer savory, one chopped onion, half a pint of cream, two eggs with pepper and salt. Mix these together and stew about 15 minutes. Take the pig from the water, fill it with the stuffing and sew it up. Boil the liver and heart with five pepper corns; chop fine for the gravy. Put the pig to roast with a pint of water and a tablespoonful of salt. When it begins to roast pour it well and baste it with the drippings. Bake three hours.

Chicken Pie.

Cut up a nice plump chicken into joints which lay upon a dish and season lightly with chopped parsley, white pepper and salt; then lay them back, cut into three pieces at the bottom of a pie dish, with the two legs on either side; have half a pound of cooked ham or bacon in slices, a layer of which cover over; then lay in two wings and over them the breast, cut in two pieces, which, with the remainder of the ham or bacon, form into a dome in the middle; pour half a pint of white sauce over, if handy, or a little broth or water; cover with paste, and bake as directed for the last. If no white sauce, dip each piece lightly in flour.

Bird's Nest Pudding.

Peel and core eight tart apples; in each hollow stuff sugar and a blade of mace or a little cinnamon; make a batter of a pint of flour, a spoonful of cornstarch, a large teaspoonful of baking starch, a large teaspoonful of baking powder, a large teaspoonful of melted butter. Mix almost as thick as drop cake, pour over the apples and bake three-quarters of an hour. Eat with sauce. To make richer pudding stew the apples first, but gently and hot so as to break them, stuff them with sugar and add.

ron, pour over a sweet custard and bake. Boil it two or three hours and serve with wine sauce.

Macaroni With Tomatoes.

Boil one half pound of macaroni till tender, pour off the water, then add one-half cup of sweet cream, one-third of a cup of butter, pepper and salt; let simmer for a short time, but be careful that it does not become much broken, turn into vegetable dish; have ready one pint of seed tomatoes, season with butter, salt and pepper; pour over the macaroni.

Cauliflower.

Break off the green leaves, cut the flower close at the bottom from the stalk; if large, divide into four quarters. Put into cold water, let it lie not over an hour, then put into boiling milk and water, or water only—milk makes it white—skim while boiling. When the stalks are tender, take it up, which must be done before it loses its crispness. Lay it on a cloth or colander to drain, and serve with melted butter.

To Cook Squash.

If very young and tender, merely cut in pieces and core; otherwise peel and core, and stew it with a small amount of water. When tender press out the water through a sieve or in a coarse cloth, mash it fine, and dress it with butter, pepper and salt.

Apple Sauce.

Pare, core and slice some apples; stew them with sufficient water to prevent burning; when done, mash them through a colander, sweeten to taste, add a small piece of butter, a little nutmeg or lemon.

Bacon Omelet.

Beat up some eggs (according to the quantity required), then add salt, pepper, some finely cut parsley and green onions and a slice or two of bacon cut into very fine mince meat; mix all well together, fry and scorch the top with a red hot poker.

Spare Ribs, Roasted.

Joint it down the middle; sprinkle it with fine sage, salt and a little flour; put it in the oven and baste it well. Serve it with apple sauce, egg sauce or white sauce.

Noble Bearing.

Too much emphasis is laid on the fact that the grandes dames of London take the news delivered by the war office with a singular nobleness of bearing, a notable calmness of mien and extreme quietness of manner, even when the tidings are such as to cause them keenest anguish. The ability to "die and make no sign" isn't confined to any class, it isn't a matter of breeding nor a test of "blue blood." It is as likely to be found in a chambermaid as in a lady-in-waiting, and its opposite is as likely to be possessed by a leader in the fashionable world as by a charwoman. It's wholly a matter of individual temperament or disposition, controlled or tempered or qualified by common sense and personal dignity—all of which are heritages likely to manifest themselves anywhere.

The state of Georgia, which is wrestling with the prohibition problem, will be interested in the announcement that 1,308 United States liquor licenses have been taken out in Maine last year.

The tonnage of the whole mercantile steam marine of Russia, Japan or Holland does not equal the tonnage of the merchant vessels taken over by the English Government as transports.

Cricket for Newham.

Mrs. Sidgwick, principal of the Newham college, has presented that college with a cricket ground, which will be appreciated by the students.

ELECTION ECHOES.

A Small Batch of the Items Picked Up Around the Polls.

The regular weekly meeting of Greensboro Council No. 13, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be held this evening at 8 o'clock.

A lamp explosion at Mr. G. S. Sergeant's about 10 o'clock last night brought out the fire department. No damage was done.

Messrs. J. R. Rich & Son, plumbers, have received notice that they have been awarded the contract for doing $8,000 worth of work in Asheville.

Mrs. James H. Boggs, wife of the machinist at the Finishing Mill, died last night. Her remains were carried to Liberty this afternoon for interment.

The Methodist Sunday school of Reidsville will run an excursion from that place to Norfolk next Thursday. It will be run by way of Greensboro.

Messrs. L. H. Sturgis & Co. are in correspondence with a gentleman in Johnson City, Tenn., who wishes to come to Greensboro and engage in business. He will move his family here as soon as he can secure a suitable residence.

Death of a Former Greensboro Man.

A telegram was received here last night announcing the death of Col. Thomas M. Whittington, which occurred at his home in Montecello, Ark., yesterday afternoon. Col. Whittington resided in Greensboro a number of years ago and will be remembered by the older citizens.

Our Several Postal Schedules.

It is pointed out that at the present time the United States and Territories and Colonies of America are afflicted with five separate and different postal schedules. These are (1) the domestic American system, which is familiar to most of us; (2) the Porto Rican system, which is the same as our own for letters, but with a higher rate for fourth-class matter; (3) the Hawaiian system, the Hawaiian rates within the islands and foreign rates with the United States; (4) the Cuban system, with a modification of the old Spanish system in the interior and foreign rates between the island and the United States; (5) the Philippine system, within the islands as the Spanish left it, but with domestic letter, newspaper and parcel rates between the archipelago and the United States. There are a great many people, including not a few American business men, who would urgently recommend Congress to take measures to unify and harmonize these various systems in some way.—The Manufacturer.

Immense Wooden Building.

The Parliament Building in Wellington, New Zealand, is the largest wooden structure in the world. In Wellington and some other New Zealand towns almost every house is constructed of wood. Large churches and important business premises are built of the same material.

The Passing of the Stem.

The old-fashioned claret glass with a stem to it is gradually giving way to the miniature tumbler. For everyday purposes the stemmed wine glass is a surpassing example of human foolishness, and particularly the foolishness of inventors. The stemmed wine glass could only have been invented in the interest of glass manufacturers. The miniature tumbler form of claret glass has several advantages. It is easier to hold, easier to store, and really takes a great deal of breaking. It will stand both wiping and a fall better than other shapes of glass.

There are about one hundred Bibles rendered rare and curious by misprints or errors. Among them are the "Vinegar" Bible, wherein that word is substituted for vineyard in the parable; the "Placemakers" Bible, where that word takes the place of peacemaker.

Miss Emma Siboni, of Milwaukee, who has been commissioned by the Dowager Empress of Russia to paint a miniature of her on ivory, was born in Denmark 22 years ago, and came to America when her parents died. She first established herself in Chicago.

The Empress Frederick of Germany possesses a curious little tea service. The tray is made of an old Persian half penny. The teapot was once a German farthing, and all the tiny cups are made from coins of different German principalities.

Women Write More Letters.

A postal official at Davenport, who has charge of a free rural delivery route in Iowa, declares that the chief beneficiaries of the innovation are the women. The bulk of the rural mail handled is to and from the farmers' wives and daughters.
